Dear all,

To ensure proper customs clearance into Belgium an invoice or pro forma invoice is required.

It must be clear from the invoice:

What material is shipped.

What the origin of the material is.

Who the shipper/seller is.

What the final delivery address is.

What the value is including currency.

But most important : Who the importer of record is, as they will be charged with import duties and VAT.

I work in the Urology division and we are trying to ship some material from china to a vendor in Belgium. Could we discuss the attached paperwork tomorrow AM?

It was provided by Mike who works for BSC over in China and is working with shipping company to have material sent out via boat on our behalf.

The vendor is Luxilon who will use the plastic resin to manufacture plastic fiber for us.

hi, Charlie and George:

Attached is the documents of contract, receipt and custom clearance related to China custom from our shipper. Some of these are in Chinese since it is for China side.

Basically BSC procured this 5 tons of Marlex PP HGX-030-01 resin raw material from YFL international logistics limited. This material was brought into China from U.S. originally. We just paid Euro 600 for these 200 bags(25 kg each) in China. Now we just want to bring it to Europe for our usage. Our people in Belgium may need to use this as evidence to report and clear the custom at Belgium.

I was told upon arrival at the port, BSC team will need to pay about $1k for custom/port related fee, YFL is responsible for all of the transportation, all the way to the destination. But they are not responsible for the import/custom paperwork at Belgium's port, BSC must do it.

Pls discuss this with the team. My understanding is, to Belgium custom, we just claim as what it is. Originally produced in U.S., procured in China, now need to import for our use in Belgium.

If everything looks fine, we can start preparation and hope to start the shipping by this week. pls let me know if there is anything else needed for our work in Belgium. Let's try to move quickly on this.

Feel free to call me if needed. 011-86-186-2182-5362.

OK. I have asked for the export doc to share, hope to get it tomorrow.

Time is tight, I will have to leave this area by Saturday, still hope to get the 1st container packed up before I leave. So you guys will definitely need to review the import/export paperwork and confirm everything before the shipper starts the packing and shipping job?

hi, Charlie:

There is some extra cost on local hauling of the container from the port to the final destination, it was not included previously. Total cost per shipment is:

Belgium: $5.7K;

U.S.: $7.8K. (both shipment and hauling are more expensive, total will be $15.6K for 2 shipments) pls confirm if this is OK.

Michael

hi, Charlie and George:

I just got a quote on the shipment to Belgium. It is about $5k. It includes all of paperwork needed for China custom clearance, transportation from storage in Dongguan all the way to the Belgium address, special packaging, and one dedicated container by sea.

They will let me know the one for U.S. later, I was told the cost to U.S. would be similar.

is this OK? once confirmed, I will inform them to start working on the preparation. hope to start the 1st one by this week.
